The Weekly Messenger
April 8, 1840

THE WEEKLY MESSENGER is decidedly the CHEAPEST family newspaper in the United States, and contains by actual measurement considerably more reading matter than any Journal published in Philadelphia—see advertisement on the fourth page.

Philadelphia, April 8, 1840.

CYPHERS.

We have on hand one or two letters from enigmatical friends, to which we cannot attend, this week, owing to a press of business. In our next they shall hear from us in full. Incog. is over-hasty, and must read what we said again.
We meant no offence in the world, and thought we were sufficiently careful in so wording our article as not to give any.
